

Office of Orientation and Transition Programs

The Office of Orientation and Transition Programs is home to the three-part orientation process to help students transition to life at Southern Miss. Our mission is to welcome new students and their families and to connect them to the people, offices and resources that will make them successful at Southern Miss and beyond.

Southern Style

Southern Style is a diverse group of student leaders selected to serve as the official host group for the University of Southern Mississippi. Responsibilities include serving as hosts for University events, serving as orientation leaders and supporting transition efforts through the Office of Orientation and Transition Programs.

Uniform Requirements

Members of Southern Style will be provided with the majority of their uniform pieces. You may need to purchase replacements or additional items, so each member can expect to spend up to $100 on the components of their uniform. Successful candidates can expect additional information at the welcome meeting.

Other Expectations

As the official host group, members will be called upon to host various university events throughout the year.

Members of Southern Style will be required to live on-campus during the summer in a designated residence hall. Costs associated with summer housing will be covered by the Office of Orientation and Transition Programs. Members of Southern Style are unable to take in-person summer classes and outside employment must be approved. Due to the unique role of Southern Style, members will be compensated for employment during the summer months and will be expected to serve in a variety of volunteer roles throughout the year. The total compensation will be $3000 split between four checks ($750 per check) which will be issued in May, June, July, and January of the following year.
